Canary

Senior Product Designer
June 2020 – Present

Canary is a complete home security system protecting the people & places you care about most.

I've been working on 'Professional Monitoring,' a new product launched last November at Canary. I worked on all aspects of the product design lifecycle, from wireframes, prototypes to user-testing – all in an expedited timeframe.

InRhythm

Senior UX/UI Designer
April 2019 – June 2020

InRhythm is one of the fastest-growing Product Engineering Consultant Agencies in NYC, with a mission to drive growth and innovation.

I worked on internal dashboard tools, simplifying complex data by designing usable interface interactions and tools.

Signal Noise (part of the Economist Group)

Product Designer
February 2018 – January 2019

During my time at Signal Noise, I was part of a two-person team in NYC, alongside a product Strategist/Researcher. We worked on a B2B2C product.

From understanding their new product goals, we presented concept models, identified product personas, service flow blueprints, wireframes, prototypes, and polished designs, all while working within their many rigid constraints.
